Q17b: Everyone deserves to have the freedom to seek protection from violence and oppression and apply for asylum. But some politicians want to limit exactly who is allowed the freedom to seek asylum and who is not based on skin color. Politicians who want to limit the rights of immigrants and people seeking safety are fundamentally anti-freedom.

Q17c: The United States has a long tradition of treating those in search of freedom with dignity. Freedom includes the right to seek safety, to start anew and build a better life. Under U.S. immigration law, we have legal obligations to offer those unable to return to their country of origin or who are at risk of persecution a chance at safety. This ensures the freedom of those fleeing poor conditions. We must protect that freedom just as we fight to protect all our other freedoms.

Q17d: The freedom to move has always been a part of the American experience, and is necessary in times of drought, famine, and war. Those who are fleeing violence and oppression in their home countries deserve the opportunity to apply for asylum in the U.S. and have their case heard while remaining safe. This freedom should be afforded to all, not just a privileged few.

Q17d: The freedom to move has always been a part of the American experience, and is necessary in times of drought, famine, and war. Those who are fleeing violence and oppression in their home countries deserve the opportunity to apply for asylum in the U.S. and have their case heard while remaining safe. This freedom should be afforded to all, not just a privileged few.

Q17c: The United States has a long tradition of treating those in search of freedom with dignity. Freedom includes the right to seek safety, to start anew and build a better life. Under U.S. immigration law, we have legal obligations to offer those unable to return to their country of origin or who are at risk of persecution a chance at safety. This ensures the freedom of those fleeing poor conditions. We must protect that freedom just as we fight to protect all our other freedoms.

Q17g: [MAGA SPLIT] Current asylum seekers are similar to those who came to our shores seeking freedom in previous generations: They are resilient, intrepid, and courageous and are exactly the people we should be welcoming to our communities. Instead, certain MAGA politicians want to divide our countries and shut the door on those seeking safety. This anti-freedom attitude is wrong for our communities and the future of our country.
